UNIVERSITY

Research and development are essential to growth and prosperity, yet the cost of operating R&D facilities often discourages companies from launching innovative projects. University-Industry partnerships can overcome this problem, and what better place to start than Montréal's Concordia University.

Our researchers are experts in a wide variety of fields; our laboratories are stocked with high-quality equipment; and our staff can provide information regarding assistance available from the federal and provincial governments.

Concordia University operates an Industrial Liaison Office to encourage direct communication with our industrial partners. You can discover first hand the kinds of resources available to meet your needs.

Contact us by Fax at (514) 848-8765 or by telephone at (514) 848-4874.
